Gladstone Youth Robs Gas Station

Homer G. Cartwright, colored boy of 17, while hitch hiking to his home in Gladstone, Sunday evening was stranded in Gray-... ling. While waiting at Callahan's gas station for a ride he took $15.00 from the cash register while James Kernosky was wait-... ing on customers. He boarded a bus at the corner and bought a ticket for St. Ignace with the money he had taken.

Sheriff John A. Papendick was called to investigate the theft and sent a hurried call to Gay-... lord and the lad was picked up at the bus station there and held by the State Police until Sheriff Papendick could get there.

In court here he was charged with simple larceny, was requir-... ed to pay court costs and placed on probation for three months.

Douglas Bishop Now Army Aviator

He missed the week-ends in New York City at first, but soon discovered the lakes and streams about Houlton to be much like those around Grayling. "Therefore, this air base is just right," he says.

Just got back from patrol duty over the Atlantic, he writes. It was a 1,200-mile non-stop flight over the ocean and thrilling, as usual, to travel 7000 to 8000 feet up at over 200 miles per hour.

Soldier Drowns In Lake Margrethe

Pvt. Alfred Bates, 23, station-... ed with the 184th Field Artillery from Fort Custer at Camp Gray-... ling in the Hanson Military res-... ervation near here for range fir-... ing tests, drowned Saturday af-... ternoon while swimming in Lake Margrethe.

Bates, who had gone to the lake with several other soldiers, was swimming some distance away from his friends when he went down.

Because he was a good swim-... mer his companions for a few seconds thought he had dived and was swimming underwater.

However, after he failed to re-... appear his companions dove to find him, while another member of the group went to summon as-... sistance.

The body was recovered about 4:20 p. m. approximately two hours after he had gone down.

All attempts at artificial res-...uscitation failing, Coroner Nor-... man Butler, of Grayling, was called and he pronounced death due to accidental drowning. No inquest was held.

The body was returned to Fort Custer.

Surviving is a sister, Mrs. Hat-... tie Gordon of Chicago.

Authorities Search for Missing Children

Michigan state and local au-... thorities have been asked to press the search for two missing Chicago children, Mary Anna Geffs, 17, and Paul Geffs 13, who were away from home last week.

MARY ANNA GEFFS

PAUL GEFFS

9, and have not been heard from since.

Acting on information that Mary Anna, attractive blonde high school senior, may have secured a job in a resort area or war defense area, the father, Robert C. Geffs, has filed a re-... ward of $200 for information leading to the return of the children. Chicago authorities consider it an unusual case with brother and sister missing to-... gether, although they may have separated later. Information about the pair should be given to blue-grey eyes and blonde hair cut in a shoulder length bob. She is extremely attractive in appear-... ance and acts and looks older than her 17 years. Her nick-... name is "Shorty."

Paul Geffs, who attended the William Boye Grammar School, Oak Park, where he was in the 7th grade, is a lively and friend-... ly boy, 4 feet 10 inches tall, weight 95 pounds with blue eyes and light brown hair. Paul has a slight squint in his right eye and a small red birthmark on his nose. Paul is nicknamed "Pudgy."

Local Golfers Lose To West Branch

ALL HAD FINE TIME.
RETURN MATCH AUGUST 2.

Eighteen golfers went to West Branch Sunday to drive it out with the West Branchers, and the match ended with the hosts on the winning side with a score of 33 to Grayling's 20.

It was a delightful day for golf and everyone had a really enjoy-... able time. The fellows of the West Branch club are always so friendly and hospitable, it is a pleasure to go there. They know how to give you a good time.

They have one of the finest 9-hole golf courses in the north and one that meets the approba-... tion of amateur as well as pro-... fessional.

A return match will be played here August 2nd.

Local Boys At Naval Training Station

Great Lakes, Ill.—Three Gray-... ling, Mich., men launched their careers with the Navy as they reported at the U. S. Naval Train-... ing Station here last week to undergo a period of recruit train-... ing.

Here they will receive instruc-... tions in the fundamentals of sea-... manship, elementary naval pro-... cedure, and physical drills. They will be given aptitude tests to determine whether they will re-... ceive specialized training at one of the Navy's many service schools, or sent to duty at sea or some other shore station.

The Grayling Bluejackets are: Donald D. McCormick, 20, and Judson L. McCormick, 22, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Mike McCormick, Star Route 1, and Harold J. Kor-... linski, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Woods, Grayling.

Kiwanis Club Notes

The club meeting and luncheon was held Wednesday in the church banquet room, where the ladies of the Church Aid served an excellent meal.

A new patriotic song written by one of the club members—Harry Hutchins—and his daugh-... ter Betty, was sung in public for the first time. It has a lot of real stirring merit.

Miss Byrdeen C. Lees, of St. Louis, Mo., a representative of the American Red Cross, was present and gave a resume of the work that has been and is being done by the Red Cross since De-... cember 7th.

Rev. H. W. Kuhlman made a few remarks and paid a large tribute to the men of the 184th Field Artillery that trained here last week.

Thinks Green Is O. K.

We notice in our neighboring exchanges that Representative Bill Green of Hillman, Montmor-... ency county, has tossed his hat in the ring again for the Repub-... lican nomination for representa-... tive of the district comprising the counties of Montmorency, Pres-... que Isle, Crawford, Roscommon, Oscoda. Bill holds that office now and has held it a long while and we dare say he will hold it again for as many years as he wishes to serve in that capacity. Bill has no doubt obtained for his district more benefits through state help than has been handed to any other representative dis-... trict of the state. He has not played the political game as a hard and fast partisan. His first and last idea is to get something for his district, more highways, better highways, more of every-... thing that can better a part of our state that has a wonderful lot of attractive out of doors to make it rich in local projects—Al Weber in Cheboygan Observ-... er.

Volunteer Forest Fire Fighters Wanted

The need for volunteer forest fire fighters was recognized by the Forest Service and the State Department of Conservation in the northern part of Michigan early last spring.

County chairmen of the OCD gave support to the organizing of these units in connection with their county work with the result that Isosco, Alcona, Ogemaw, Oscoda and Crawford, parts of which are in the Huron National Forest are out in front with Vol-... unteer Forest Fire Wardens or-... ganized and trained," stated R. E. Crowell, Forest Supervisor.

These volunteer fire wardens responded to a number of calls during the spring fire season and did good work. Some additional training will be needed to fully qualify the members as OCD Vol-... unteer Fire Fighters.

Church Notices for Next Sunday

At 11:00 a. m. next Sunday the pastor will speak on the subject "Some Conference Flashes," at Michelson Memorial church. A sharp debate was occasioned re-... garding a number of present day questions. You will want to know concerning them.

Bible school will continue thru the summer months as usual though the groupings will be re-... arranged somewhat. It is hoped that all teachers make plans for classes in the entire group next Sunday.

Services last Sunday at the Michelson Memorial church were well attended. The feature attraction, of course, being the colored helpers, Major Lewis, Chaplain Watts, Sgt. Doumas and organist and male quartette all rendered valuable service. It was a helpful, inspiring service, long to be remembered.

THURSDAY, JULY 2, 1942

By GENE ALLEMAN

Keep fit for war work by healthful vacation in Michigan!

This theme of the four tourist and resort associations has been sanctioned in spirit by the Office of Defense Transportation for the nation's war-time requirements.

It may rescue Michigan's $300,- 000,000 recreational industry,
highly concentrated in North Michigan and the Upper Peninsula, from the economic doghouse this summer.

Two months ago the uncertainties of war made the summer outlook dismal indeed. Then reservations for cottages began to arrive. And folks are staying for the summer, too. Now, the first week in July, things are on the
"up and up" in North Michigan, from all reports. As is often the case, facts are better than fears.

Transportation is the key to the 1942 vacation season.

Anticipated gasoline rationing,
a means of conserving rubber tires for the war duration, has been postponed. The contradictory statements of federal and state officials have confused the situation. Resort owners are frankly worried, but the silver lining to date is this: It is not unpatriotic to fish and swim and otherwise to keep physically fit.

From the White House down to governors' executive offices, leaders recommend the desirability of recreation for needed morale.

What are the favorable factors?
First, Michigan is convenient to the national center of population.
Long trips to the West or New England are impractical this summer. Michigan is within a day's access of millions of people, many of whom are working long hours
in war plants, earning high wages, and probably will continue to do so for many months
to come.

Second, a short war lessens the need of a civilian furlough, but a lengthened strain upon our man-power will increase its importance. Recent over-optimism

has been checked by military reverses of the past few weeks.
Victory in 1942 no longer seems possible, even by a remote stretch of the imagination. The long haul is ahead.

Third, railroad and bus facilities are good to Michigan's vacationland. If vacations are started mid-week, instead at weekend periods, these facilities should be adequate to meet the additional travel demands.

Fourth, Michigan comprises not only one peninsula, but two peninsulas. Our coastline is greater than any other state, even including Florida. Consequently, water transportation is possible to such isolated points as Mackinac Island—an attraction that many vacation states do not possess.

Newspaper editors of North
Michigan met for a "war clinic"
recently at Gaylord.

And here is a typical report of summer prospects:

"Things are a lot better than we thought they would be. In fact, there are signs that we may have a better season than usual,
as some families prefer to travel
short distances from the cities
rather than make long motor trips."

Upper Peninsula towns in mining and lumbering areas are humming with industrial activity, but the resort owners are still apprehensive. Many resorts in the U. P. lack good transportation facilities except by automobile. Distances are great.

A bright spot appears to be Sault Ste. Marie where thousands of United States soldiers are stationed at Fort Brady and surrounding cantonments and a ship
lock and airport are under construction.

"A colorful drama of war defense is presented 24 hours a day
at this great transportation artery which in peacetime is visited by tourists and sightseers from all over the world," writes John R.
Merryfield, secretary of the Sault
Ste. Marie Chamber of Commerce.

"Just now barrage balloons
float over the locks and the city
all day long, and many a powerful searchlight stabs the sky at night."

"Soldiers of the United States Coast Artillery man the anti-aircraft batteries that are installed everywhere. The guns are of many sizes and their crews are trained to a high pitch of efficiency."

"St. Mary's majestic river whose scenic charm has been celebrated for centuries, is now patrolled for miles north and south of the city. A strategic shore road is being constructed from end to end of the mighty stream."

"Building of the new lock will keep 600 men busy for two years or more. Widening of the west ship canal has been started by the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock Company."

Frank Davis of the Eastern Michigan Tourist Association reports philosophically, "People are going to take a vacation some-
how. The biggest headache is local transportation to and from resort areas."

"Many of our tourists will be without cars and will demand jitney service, or some other means of transportation, into towns. Guests are not going to seek amusement by riding around the country-side in an automobile, but will stay at resorts.
Shuffle-board, camera hikes,
hobbyhorse pack trips, ping pong,
tennis, bicycle riding, softball

games—these are some of the possibilities for stay-at-camp vacationers."

Davis gives this advice, too, to resort owners: "Don't talk war,
or be a 'worry wart' about national affairs. Your patrons are at your resort to escape from the strain of war work, and are seeking relaxation to build their morale."

That is the spirit of the 1942
vacation industry in Michigan.

The northland country, scenic
in lakes and streams and forests,
offers an ideal haven for war
workers who want to keep fit.

Nearby to Michigan industrial centers are shore beaches and parks and small lakes—something which Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and Illinois, for example, cannot provide for their metropolitan populations.

Michigan is more than an arsenal of assembly-line production.
It is an arsenal of outdoor recreation, important to war-time morale.

Hunting Bag Limits Being Decided

Season dates and bag-limits
for this fall's hunting will be fixed by the state conservation commission at its July meeting at the conservation department's training school on Higgins Lake, near here, July 13.

Recommendations for deer and small game hunting rules are now being prepared by the department's game division, after review of field men's reports on the current season's game
"crop." Michigan regulations for migratory waterfowl shooting
will be laid down some weeks later, after announcement of federal regulations, which state rules may not exceed.

Fire Prevention Hand- book for Cottagers

A fire prevention handbook for use of cottagers, farmers and others living in rural areas is now available for distribution by the department of conservation. The booklet, written in non-technical language, is available on application to the department's Lansing office.

Egyptian Plague Likened To Modern Eruptions

New evidence corroborating the biblical story of the fall of Jericho has been disclosed by Dr. John Garstang of the University of Liverpool.

"There is no need," he said, "to quote the biblical account of this episode. The city is described in the Old Testament as protected by walls and having no gate. The walls fell in such a way that the Israelites (who were fresh from the desert)
were able to enter the city almost everywhere; and the place later was destroyed by fire."

"Parts of the double brick rampart have been located. They show clear signs of the dislocations which are ascribed to earthquakes. It is obvious that the masonry had plunged into the face of the mound
on which the city stood. Attackers would have met with no barrier other than the rough slope. The structures within the city show clear signs of earthquake and fire. Excavations located only one gate, and that opened toward the east."

Regarding other biblical stories,
Dr. Garstang believes that the pillar of fire may have been a volcanic eruption, which often throws a column of fire to an altitude of 20 miles.
The Egyptian plague, which turned the Nile into "blood," and destroyed the fish, finds support in modern volcanic eruptions which have turned water red and poisonous.

The Home Front

The price ceiling covers all of Main Street now.

From one end of Michigan to the other, it stands above the cash register in the shoeshine
shop as well as the butcher shop.
It has been extended until it shields the man who wants a clock repaired or his hat blocked quite as much as it does the customer at the corner grocery or drug store.

All these additions to the price
control structure—the whole list
would fill innumerable pages—
fall into the category of what are called "consumer services."
They are controlled as of July 1 by a new Office of Price Administration regulation.

Extension to the price roof
which shelters us from the high cost of living is a sizeable one—one which will be reflected (and happily) in almost every family budget.

It will, for instance, be reflected in what the average family pays for repairs to all sorts of things.

The new regulations finish the complete price ceiling system begun on April 28. In the space of two months we have set our economic house in order for war,
with solid barriers against rising living costs.

Be sure you remember that the new regulations apply only to consumer services—rendered "in connection with commodities." They have nothing to do with fees charged by your lawyer, doctor, dentist, barber or at your beauty
shop.

Manpower Commission Chairman Paul McNutt and War Production Chief Donald Nelson took a step last week which should speed skilled workers to war
jobs—and keep them there.

In the past, if an unemployed automobile worker was called back to his old job he was forced to report within a week or lose his seniority rights. Now, if the worker has been trained for a new job he may choose to stay with his new war employer and still retain his seniority in the old plant.

Transportation must not be a bottleneck if men and materials are to move to far-flung fronts in sufficient quantities to defeat the Axis.

Trained soldiers waiting at cantonment, finished weapons piled high on docks are of no value on the battlefield.

The Office of Defense Transportation has opened a new offensive on the transportation problem with formation of a "U. S. Truck Conservation Corps."
This corps will enlist owners and drivers of our 5,000,000 motor trucks in a national campaign to save their machines and tires.
The President opened the campaign, saying that "it has become the patriotic duty of every truck operator to help make his truck
last longer."

Automobile graveyards yielded 363,253 tons of scrap metal in May, a 10 per cent increase over April. Last summer's aluminum drive netted 8,398,051 pounds,
only 42 per cent of the amount expected. Several million pounds of honey have been made available as a substitute for sugar in bakery goods, ice cream, candy and soft drinks. . . and bee-keepers have been encouraged to produce more honey by a WPB order increasing the output of wooden beehives. . . your landlord has not been prohibited
from re-painting or re-decorating
your apartment or home if it constitutes normal "maintenance or repair" . . . enemy-owned patents seized by the U. S. Alien Property Custodian cover a wide variety of machines and processes—among one group seized last week were patents for coal mine conveyors, automatic drills for use in airplane building, oil refining processes, and chemical compounds. . . the patents were owned by German, Italian, Japanese and Hungarian corporations and individuals. . . movie
producers have advised WPB
they are taking steps to reduce the amount of film in Hollywood and the quantity of material used in tests.

Interesting Events In Grayling 23 Years Ago

INTERESTING ITEMS OF NEWS GATHERED FROM THE FILES OF THE AVALANCHE OF 23 YEARS AGO

Thursday, July 3, 1919

Elmer Eugene Knight, a resident of Grayling since boyhood, passed away at his home in this city Tuesday forenoon at about seven o'clock. For the past couple of weeks Mr. Knight had been in a feeble condition and death was due to tuberculosis, from which he had been ailing for the last couple of years. A few weeks ago he went to Ann Arbor to consult specialists, but they were unable to do anything for him. Since coming from Ann Arbor he has been living out-of-doors in an endeavor to somewhat regain his health.

Miss Ruby Olson left Saturday night for Mt. Pleasant to enter the Normal School for the summer term.

Miss Janet Matson was hostess at a tea at her home yesterday forenoon in honor of Miss Hilda Jensen of Flint and Miss Pauline of Detroit.

New Device Gives Motor Efficiency, Saves Fuel

Science will play a big part in our nation's defense and war plans. The scientific research foundation of California has been conducting experiments with a new discovery of the greatest speed ever attained mechanically, developing the astounding speed of over 150,000 r.p.m.

The foundation has been using this terrific speed to break down and atomize pathogenic microorganisms that can only be seen with a very powerful microscopic lens. The findings of the research foundation have been very interesting to members of the medical profession. Its clinical results have been very satisfactory. It has long been known that the human body absorbs numerous forms of pathogenic bacteria (disease-bearing bacteria) such as ash diphtheria, tuberculosis, influenza and we believe infantile paralysis. It was necessary in order to disintegrate chemicals, solutions and enzymes, that some method must be devised that would break up media into such a fine atomized state that it could be readily absorbed into the body through the lung tissue.

During these research experiments, it was discovered that the basic principle used to disintegrate the materials for medical use could be applied to the atomization of the hydro-carbon series of petroleum (fuels used in the internal combustion engine) the experimental results of the research foundation were astounding.

Coldest Spot on Earth Is Interior of Siberia

Without exception, the coldest place on earth is Werchojansk, in the interior of Siberia. The lowest temperature ever recorded was taken there on January 15, 1885—it was 90 degrees and a fraction below zero.

Werchojansk is in the latitude of the pole and is so cold, that the earth is generally frozen to a depth of about 900 feet. In the warmest season it never completely thaws.

To illustrate just how cold it is in this part of Siberia in the winter, the inhabitants find it almost impossible to break through the ice with a pick as the implement rebounds with an incredible, not to say dangerous, impetus. When chopping green wood or a frozen tree, a shower of sparks continually flies from the axe.

Dash a glass of water into the air and it is a crystal sheet of ice before it strikes the ground. Occasionally wild geese and other game birds are picked up dead in the fields of Werchojansk. In their fight across the country they frequently freeze to death high in the air and drop like a bomb to earth.

In the winter time the people buy their milk frozen or by the "piece," it being allowed to freeze about a stick which makes a convenient handle with which to carry it like a giant popsicle. The milkman leaves one chunk or two as the case may be, at the homes of his customers who have their own troubles trying to melt it.

Washing Little Hosts
The use of little and wool stockings is so new to many women that they are doubtful as to the best method of washing them. The same simple methods you employ for washing silk and nylon stockings apply to the fine new lises. Plenty of velvet socks made with a pure milk soap in lukewarm water, careful rinsing in lukewarm water, and your colorful new lises will always look as lovely and fresh as your other hosiery.

For knitted wool stockings use the same pure mild soap and the same washing method, but be careful not to rub the feet hard if you want them to fit comfortably. Rubbing causes shrinkage. Squeeze out the rinsing water by hand and dry by laying out flat in a warm dry place or by stretching on wooden stocking frames.

X-ray in Sinusitis
Patients who suffer chronic sinus trouble may often be cured or improved through X-ray treatments. Dr. Ivan M. Woolley of Portland, Ore., reported to the Radiological Society of America.

"In 11 years' experience," Dr. Woolley said, "no harmful results have been seen. Predictions that X-ray treatment might seriously complicate indicated surgical procedures have been proved false."

Dr. Woolley said published statistics revealed a general average of 33 per cent symptom-free, 41 per cent improved, and only 26 per cent unimproved "showing Roentgen therapy has a definite place in present-day treatment of chronic sinusitis."

Life Depends on Proteins
Proteins, known to the average person as the main constituents of such foodstuffs as meats, eggs, fish, cheese, are really of countless sorts, and all life depends on them.

Proteins are of two main kinds: Roundish and fiberlike. Silk, hair, and such substances are fiberlike proteins, while the white of eggs, the constituents of the human blood are roundish proteins.

The present methods of transforming roundish proteins into fibrous ones are very drastic and not easily controlled.

Such proteins, derived from plants and animals, are widely used for production of plastics and synthetic "wool and silk" and so on.

Health & Hygiene

(H. H. Riecker, M.D. For: The Michigan Joint Committee on Health Education.)

The paraffin bath is one of the most effective methods ever devised for treating arthritis, but this statement we regret to say is applicable chiefly to one kind of arthritis only, that which occurs in middle or old age and confined particularly to the fingers. In many people in middle life an enlarging and hardening process of the bones of the terminal joints of the fingers, called osteo-arthritis, develops. It is a bony hardness. Its appearance is that of knots of the end joints of the fingers next to the nails. These at times become extremely painful and may be disabling. The same form of arthritis not uncommonly appears in the back and the knees. It is not an infectious process. It does not seem to be due to the type of food we eat or the work we do but is largely governed by heredity and does become disabling at times.

Here is a dentist in a rural area, aged 70, whose sons and daughters are in the Service as soldiers and nurses, and he must continue to work. He could not do delicate work considering the amount of arthritis present in his fingers if it were not for the paraffin baths which he uses each day. This bath maintains his fingers flexible and painless in spite of rather advanced disease. The technique is as follows:

About four pounds of ordinary paraffin, such as is used to seal jelly and preserves in the home, is melted in the upper portion of a double boiler, or slowly melted in a rather deep pan or pot. After it is melted it is allowed to cool until a thin scum forms on top, indicating that the paraffin has now cooled somewhat. The container may be placed in cold water to hasten the cooling. As soon as the scum forms, the hands, in the case of arthritis of the fingers, are dipped into the paraffin and removed after three seconds. The fingers must be held still until the paraffin hardens. As soon as this layer of paraffin hardens the hands are dipped again into the paraffin until 8 or 10 coats have been applied on each hand.

The patient may then sit down for 5 or 10 minutes and by this time 15 to 20 minutes have elapsed and the wax can be removed. A member of the household may remove the wax from one hand, much as a glove is taken off, and the patient can remove that from the other hand. The paraffin is placed back into the pan to be used next time. During the process the hands begin to sweat and the sweating may continue for 8 to 10 hours, such is the effectiveness of this method of applying heat. The hair on the wrists and back of the hand must be shaved or a dermatitis may result from infection of the hair follicles.

Training With a Bang

OPENING A SECOND FRONT will be the job of troops seasoned to the shocks of war. That is why the British troops shown in these pictures are being trained today, not only to be efficient with their own weapons, but also to know what it feels like to be "blitzed." At left, a plane has just screamed low over their heads in an "attack," and now a mine is detonated right in front to simulate the burst of the "dive-bomb." Above: tank men in low-slung fast British Valentines feel what it's like to have two very close explosions. Below: infantry literally "go through fire" as part of a two-week course at a Battle School in South-East England. When the time is ripe for the Second Front, they will know what to do.

LIDICE: Village of Death

THIS IS THE SCENE of the Nazis' latest triumph. Once Lidice was a quiet little Czechoslovak village like thousands in the U. S. Its people, miners and farmers, worshipped at the ancient church and shopped in the little general store (left).

Today Lidice is no more. The church and the houses are level with the ground. Every man over 17 was murdered. Every woman was deported, and Lidice's children are imprisoned in German reform schools. Even the cattle and the pigs were driven away.

The razing of Lidice was part of the campaign of terror that the Nazis began after the assassination of their bloody politician Reinhard Heydrich. Having executed hundreds of men and women, the Gestapo turned its anger on this innocent village and laid it waste. Unsuccessful in their attempts to stop the resistance of the people of occupied countries by the wholesale shooting of hostages, the Nazis have tried this new and brutal technique in Jugoslavia and Norway as well as in Czechoslovakia.

Four Good Reasons Why French Perfume's Costly

Why are French perfumes so expensive anyway?

They are and must be expensive, experts say, because:

1. Perfume "bases," or "fixatives" (what makes a perfume last) are not produced in America. And when these are imported, the government claps on them a 90 per cent tax.

2. While the U. S. department of agriculture has experimented, and is now experimenting with, flower fields in various American terrain, the cost of labor, so far, has caused perfumes distilled here to be considerably more expensive than the same kinds imported from Europe.

3. Again, American soil, so far as is known today, will not grow certain flowers needed—for instance, the particular kind of roses needed—to make attar of roses. So far, only roses grown in a particularly fertile, gracious soil at Kazanlik, Bulgaria, will make this most precious essence.

4. Perfumes are expensive because men are large buyers of perfume. When men buy perfume they are generally in a quivering and trembling state. (Perhaps she loves me and perhaps she doesn't.) And when a trembling man buys perfume, he does not haggle over the cost. Instead, with a magnificent gesture, he pays the price and counts it cheap, indeed, if it induces in the little woman a melting, or receptive mood.

'Trap-Door' Spiders Make Ground Their Homes

The spiders which we see most often live about houses or in gardens. They spin webs and live chiefly on flies and other insects captured in the silken traps.

Trap-door spiders live chiefly in the tropics, but some are found in the temperate zones. Southern states of the United States, also southwestern states, have them in fairly large numbers in certain sections. During the daytime the trap door usually is shut tightly. Often it is covered with moss or grass; you will need to look with sharp eyes to tell it apart from the rest of the ground.

In digging its home, this spider uses its jaws to cut through the soil. It makes the trap door from soil and from the silken thread it spins. It covers the sides of the hole with web material.

Sometimes there is an extra hole, leading from the side of the main one. This hole may have another trap door at the point where it joins the other.

There is a special reason for a branch from the main hole of the spider. It has enemies which may find their way into the top opening, and in that case a second defense can be put up against the invader by running behind the other trap door.

No Laws Displaying Flags

Neither the federal government nor any of the states has enacted any laws regarding the manner of displaying the flag of the United States. The federal government has by statute provided only against desecration of the flag. The army and navy have regulations covering the flag but are without authority to enforce them in civilian use.

Civilian regulations embodied in the flag code, adopted in 1923 at a conference of patriotic and educational organizations, provide that when the flag is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff, it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or outdoors. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, the observer's left.

The flag must never be draped on a vehicle, train or boat. When carried on an automobile, the staff should be attached securely to the radiator cap or chassis.

Broccoli Means Sprout

The word "broccoli" is the Italian plural of "broccolo" which means a sprout and which is the diminutive of the word "brocco" meaning a splinter.

Broccoli is a hardy variety of cauliflower, which in turn, is a type of cabbage, in which the head consists of condensed and thickened flower clusters instead of leaves. It is believed to have originated in Cyprus, in the Mediterranean sea. Apparently it was taken to Italy during the 16th century and its use spread to other European countries, England and France in particular. In the middle 1920s the genuine calabrese branching broccoli was brought to this country and was grown for the market in 1927.

Why Dentures Look False

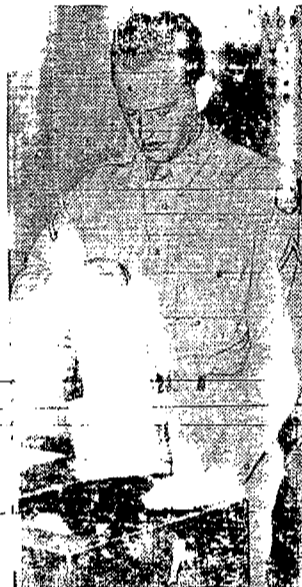

One reason why false teeth may be detected, according to Dr. L. R. Hardy of New York, is that in making a set of artificial teeth the cusps, or eyeteeth, are set too close to the center and are made too small. If you want to prevent the clacking sound that betrays your dentures, he says, rub the back teeth with acrylin resin. Another thing that betrays "store" teeth is that they are not made sufficiently convex and thus reflect light in an unnatural manner. Use of certain mineral stains on false teeth reduces their artificial look by relieving color sameness.

Mourning

Dressed in his German bund storm trooper's uniform, Karl Geiger, 59, of Brooklyn, leaves the federal court building after a hearing. He was arrested as he left a Brooklyn funeral parlor, wearing this outfit. Geiger explained that he and a friend, Eugene Habel, had made a pact that whoever should die first would be mourned by the other wearing the bund's storm trooper uniform.

Saves Work for U. S.

The army and navy soon will inaugurate a new method of microscopically copying letters to soldiers in foreign lands. By means of this method 1,500 letters can be recorded on one reel of film. Three reels are the equivalent of two mail pouches. In this picture Private Erwin Twaddell removes the camera from the recording machine, for processing before reel is shipped.

Midway Hero

Lient. Henry Flitts, 25, of Macon, N. C., first publicly acclaimed hero of the battle between American air arms and Jap fleet off Midway Island. He dropped the bombs which sank a Jap aircraft carrier.

At the periscope during diving practice at the naval submarine training school, New London, Conn. As the sub goes down the officer sees a green film cover the lens, which gradually darkens to black. When the dive level is reached he commands "level off."

Tank Corner of Demo

This is a view of the Chrysler plant in Detroit turning out land battleships by the hundred. Imposing as it is, this is just a cog in the mighty machine now in high gear turning out the sinews of war to defeat the Axis. Production has now hit its stride and the tanks roll off, night and day, in a steady stream.

Malaya Ruins

Pudgy General Tomayuki Yamashita, Japan's No. 1 soldier, is shown leading his staff on an inspection tour of the ruins in Malaya. The general directed the capture of Singapore and then went on to take Bataan and Corregidor in the Philippines. This soundphoto is from an enemy source, and has just been received in the United States.

Rescued by Bomber in Caribbean

Somewhere in the Caribbean . . . The thrilling moment when seven men, adrift in the Caribbean sea on a raft, were hauled to safety to the cabin of a giant U. S. navy patrol bomber. The men had been adrift for seven days after their torpedoed freighter had been sunk. Lient. Hugh Rogers and Ensign Lance Thompson were in command of the rescue plane which was landed in heavy seas.

Why do most people pronounce the word RATION as it sounds in "RASHION," when it is properly pronounced Ration, with a long "a"? The A has the sound as in "Azor." Ration with the A sounding as in A is not correct. Still most people pronounce it that way—army officers as well.

We are indebted to Private Don Koivonen of Co. M, 131st Infantry of Camp Brady, for a copy of their weekly post paper "The Look Guard." It is interesting with pictures of some of the personnel of the Fort, army and camp chatter and army humor. We were glad to get it. Thank you, Don.

Saturday is the "Glorious 4th." Keep it sane by careful driving. It's a day of picnics also. Many people go swimming. Newspapers report many drownings the next day. Take no chances; use judgment when going into lakes or streams. And of course you won't burn any gun powder. That would be unpatriotic. The 4th is a good time to work in that Victory garden.

Within the space of 45 minutes Wednesday, F. A. Davis sold $33.50 in War Savings stamps and a $25.00 Defense bond among merchants. Letters from CampSquadron 38, SAAAB
Santa Ana, Calif.
June 27, 1942

Dear Editor:

I got the Avalanche Monday, and it was like news from home. I am in a different squadron now. I passed my exams all right and was classified for pilot's training. John (Selesky) also made pilot; Billy's (Bolinger) classification hasn't come through yet. All who made pilot moved into Squadron 38 which is where I am now. Also there are several men here originally from other squadrons; this one is composed entirely of fellows who have been classified for pilots. We were issued our uniforms Thursday, and everybody was pretty happy about that. We also drew our school books, and will start classes Monday. The course usually lasts for nine weeks, but there is a good chance that if we hit the ball we may be out of here before then.

We have drawn rifles and will march in the review on Sunday. We haven't drilled much with them so far, but as yet I guess nobody has turned the wrong way and been cracked on the head.

I have all different room mates than the ones I started out with. One, Joe Polevka, is from near Iron Mountain, Mich., and was a sergeant at Wheeler Field when the war broke out. He received a citation for his actions during the attack, in helping to keep the planes in the air as much as possible.

Up until the time we drew uniforms, standard garb was coveralls and cap. Wearing our other caps now lets more sun into our faces, and my nose and forehead are all sunburned.

A little later on we are supposed to get a little pistol practice, on the range down by the ocean. Maybe we'll get to go swimming then—some of the fellows do.

There are some pretty talented men in this outfit—I discovered one today who is really good on the piano in the day room. And the other night somebody was washing up and whistling "Figaro" at the same time and doing quite well at both. Then Sunday night two singers got together and did a bit of harmonizing. The session lasted about three hours and everybody was in it before it broke up.

I see by the bulletin board that the camp is soon to have a newspaper. I think it will be printed in town.

I have some pictures I took here and on the trip out; I'll send some later. I shot up another roll today and started another one, so I am back in the groove again.

It's about time to go, so I'll stop on this. By the way, how about the addresses of some of the Grayling boys out here? There must be some. What is Clarence Czykyski's address now?

Regards to all.
Ivan Rice.Fort Crook, Nebr.
June 22, 1942

Dear Mr. Schumann:

Just finished reading the Avalanche and found it very interesting as always, and thanks a million for transferring it around to me whenever I change Post and address.

Well, here I am in school again, the second one in eight months. This time they are teaching me to "keep them rolling" as we say here. The course is rather hard as we are here only nine weeks. We have to study 12 to 14 hours a day to learn very much because there is really a lot to a truck when you stop to think about it. I don't have very much time to write so this will be a short letter.

I wish you would have Bert Conner's folks send me his address as I would like to write him a letter. He left Fort Warren four days before I did and I didn't get his address and he didn't get mine, so if you will do that I will be very thankful to you.

This is a very small post six miles south of Omaha. I haven't been to town yet as I have been broke ever since I have been down here. I was sent out of Leonard Wood the day after payday without being paid and haven't got any yet. But I will get two months pay at one time now so if I don't have to go to school on the Fourth of July I will be going to town and have some fun.

The young fellows' back home should see the corn-fed gals out here. They sure have got some swell looking girls out here at least. The best I have seen since leaving Michigan. Last Friday night we had a bad storm here. I guess it was what you call a cloud-burst because it really came down. It couldn't sink into the ground as fast as it came down so it ran to the low spots. Some places it washed ditches 4 and 5 feet deep. It flooded the basement of our mess hall. It ran in thru the windows which are a foot from the ground and did about $4,000 damage to food, such as sugar and flour and stuff like that so we probably won't get much to eat for a few days.

Well I will have to close and study my lesson for tomorrow because if we don't make the grade we get shipped back to our home outfit, and there we end up on the bull gang.

Yours truly,
Pvt. Max Lett.Hawaiian Islands
May 19, 1942

Dear Mother and Dad:

Mary sent your letter to me. I hope you are all well up that way. I am fine. You will have to excuse me for withholding my location as conditions forbid us from revealing further information. All I can say is that I am on one of the Hawaiian Islands. I am safe and in the best of health. Good grief mother, don't worry about me. Just because the Japs bombed these Islands once is no cause for worry.

This Island is the one on which Pearl Harbor is located. But that is about as much as I am allowed to say. Tell them all hello for me up there. I sure miss hunting.

I do hope you will excuse this short letter but really there is nothing I can write about.

Well this is about all I can say so I will close for now, hoping to hear from you soon.

As always, with lots of love to both of you.

Paul Ostrander.

P. S.—Write and send it via air mail as it is about five thousand miles from here to there.

Crawford Avalanche:

This is a copy of a letter written by Don Beaver to Frank Millikin that is very interesting. He took up submarine training in May:

Dear Friends:

Well, I think it about time I was writing a few lines to you folks. I have been awfully busy going to school and trying to make good enough grade to make Diesel school. Anyhow, I made it, so now I will have a little more time. I am writing this in class so excuse the scribbling.

I received the buck and was sure glad to get it. I don't know of anything more useful.

Say, if you would like to read a little about the base and just a small part of the training we go through out here, the Look Magazine for June 30 has a few pictures in it, not very much, but about all they dare to publish.

Well, I guess we are going to get a little raise in pay sometime or other. Boy we sure could use it.

I will be here eleven more weeks so am going to have a good time while I am here because after we leave we stay out to sea for 90 days or longer and never come up on top during the day-time. I sure would like to see you folks again before I go, but I think it is hopeless as far as a leave is concerned right now.

Tell Floyd he might just as well join the Navy and get into the Reserves, then he can get out just as soon as the war is over, or he becomes 21; also there are a lot of different schools he could attend. They have some of the best Diesel schools in the country.

It is almost time for the class to let out so I will close for this time, hoping to hear from you soon. Don't wait for me to write as sometimes I am awfully busy.

As ever, your friend,
Don.

June 29, 1942

Dear Mr. Schumann:

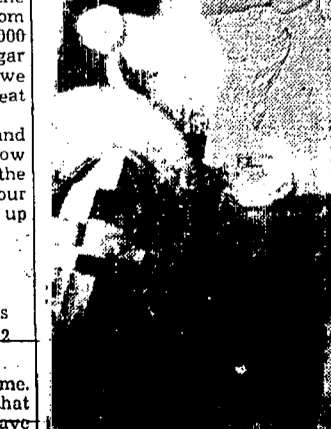

My writing may be a little difficult to read due to the swaying of this train. This is the first leg of a trip across the pond, destination unknown, with a combat unit. Brother Fred, who is finishing his cadet training in the Navy Air Corps at Pensacola, should be along later, and I hope to meet him over there soon when our forces start mopping up.

As there can be no addresses given you will have to discontinue sending me the Avalanche for a short while. I will miss it as I will miss Michigan and Grayling; fishing on the still water at night and saying hello to Lacey, Earl, Don, Mike, and everyone that loves the AuSable as I do. People really live and breathe America up there and that spirit—the spirit that fills every inch of this country today—is going to be easy to fight for.

There's really only one thing that bothers me, and that is that someone is going to catch a big brown I have spotted, before I get back and have the chance to hook him again.

Best regards, and thanks again for the Avalanche.

Pfc. H. B. Smith, III.

There is now in large scale production an artificial rubber (thick oil) which promises to help carry the nation over its critical tire shortage. Above, John Lange is shown painting synthetic rubber on an old tire at the Thikol plant at Trenton, N. J. Any number of coats of thikol may be applied to a smooth surface tire. After the liquid has dried it will stand up well and give satisfactory mileage.

Conserve Food
In Fishing

One wartime injunction that Michigan anglers can observe with ease even the few among the several hundred thousand opening the bass and bluegill season last week end who went fishing exclusively for the sport—is the plea to conserve food by eating every fish legally caught.

The "priority" now enjoyed by the fellow fishing for food is illustrated by specific exceptions in his favor in a War Production Board order restricting the manufacture of fishing tackle. Michigan game and panfish are of such quality, however, that no WPB advice has been necessary to insure their preparation for the table as a patriotic duty, and veteran Michigan fishermen will dispute with the WPB—or any one else—any claim that the eating is more than a minor part of the enjoyment of fishing.

All-fishing waters of the state are now available to anglers, making travel a minor matter for most residents. Fewer than usual tourist fishermen have been observed by state conservation officers making the rounds to see that all anglers on inland waters have licenses, take no more than 15 bluegills, no more than 25 panfish including bluegills, no more than five "big game" fish—black bass, walleyes and northern pike.

Grayling, Mich.
June 28, 1942

Dear Mr. Schumann:

I would appreciate it very much if you would put this little piece in your paper.

My daughter Betty has been sick in bed most of the week, and her little kitten strayed away. She got up out of bed this morning to look for it.

Someone had picked it up and following is its fate:

Every day I see small boys carrying slingshots and air rifles and we all know what that means to the birds and small animals of our community.

There is a lot being said about the soldiers' morale. Why don't parents teach their small boys the meaning of this word so they will know what it means before they reach manhood.

Where is civilian morale? Who in Grayling has the warped and twisted mind that would take a little yellow kitten, tie a brick around its neck and let it drown? This very thing happened down to the City Park this Friday (June 26th). It was found by a group of small girls who were in swimming and they brought it back to Betty, dead. She loved that little kitten and she is heartbroken. It's the only pet she had.

If this party has a cat or dog and it received the same treatment, I wonder how they would feel?

Mrs. Ora Ingalls.
